Welcome to your Numerology Talent Profile.

This report matches your personality traits and talents to the vocations they are most suited to. It is designed to help you identify areas in which you are likely to succeed and find contentment. Knowing which attributes come naturally can inspire you to develop and build on those strengths.

How This One-Of-A-Kind Talent Profile Came To Be

I began offering personal consultations in the early 1980's and quickly learned that my clients' main concerns were romance, health, money, and career. Of those, I realized the largest and most enduring obstacle to happiness tended to be their choice of profession. If a person is unable to find satisfaction in their work, there is little that can make up for the years spent in a state of discontent.

This understanding prompted me to develop the Talent Report. By employing numerology's unique analytical approach to decoding an individual's personal makeup, I felt it could be used to help make informed career choices based on an objective understanding of one's attributes.

How A Talent Profile Works

Each of the nine single-digit numbers has a specific range of personality traits. Most traits are found in more than one number, although in varying degrees of influence - some stronger, others weaker. Each number carries both positive and negative aspects and displays those traits in a unique manner.

For example, courage is found in the numbers 1, 2, 5, and 8. However, the way these numbers display courage differs considerably. The number 5 is the most courageous, but its bravery is impulsive and rebellious, the kind that stands up to a bully or the status quo regardless of the consequences. The courage of the number 1 is more focused; it is the daring leader, the first to cross a dangerous sea, climb a mountain, or fly to the moon. The number 2 displays a gentle and kind valor, as in the act of sacrificing oneself to save another. The courageous 8 is motivated by duty and authority; it confronts danger to protect the law or the land.

Traits such as courage, that on the surface would seem to be constant no matter the circumstances, can be subtly different. Take the example of courage vs. thrill seeking; both require bravery, but the latter will look for opportunities to take unnecessary chances. Thrill seeking reflects an addiction to adrenaline, whereas pure courage is the act of overcoming one's fear.

For your Talent Profile we looked at seventy-four traits, divided into eleven groups. The first group has to do with individuality, independence, and initiative. The second looks at traits that share creative and social aspects, and so forth. The profile also rates your aptitude in thirty-nine careers, grouped into seven fields.

Keep in mind that numerology is an inexact science and looks at the relationship between character traits and vocations differently than psychological or vocational assessments. It is one tool among many that can shed light on finding the right career options for you.

Your Proportional Numerology Chart

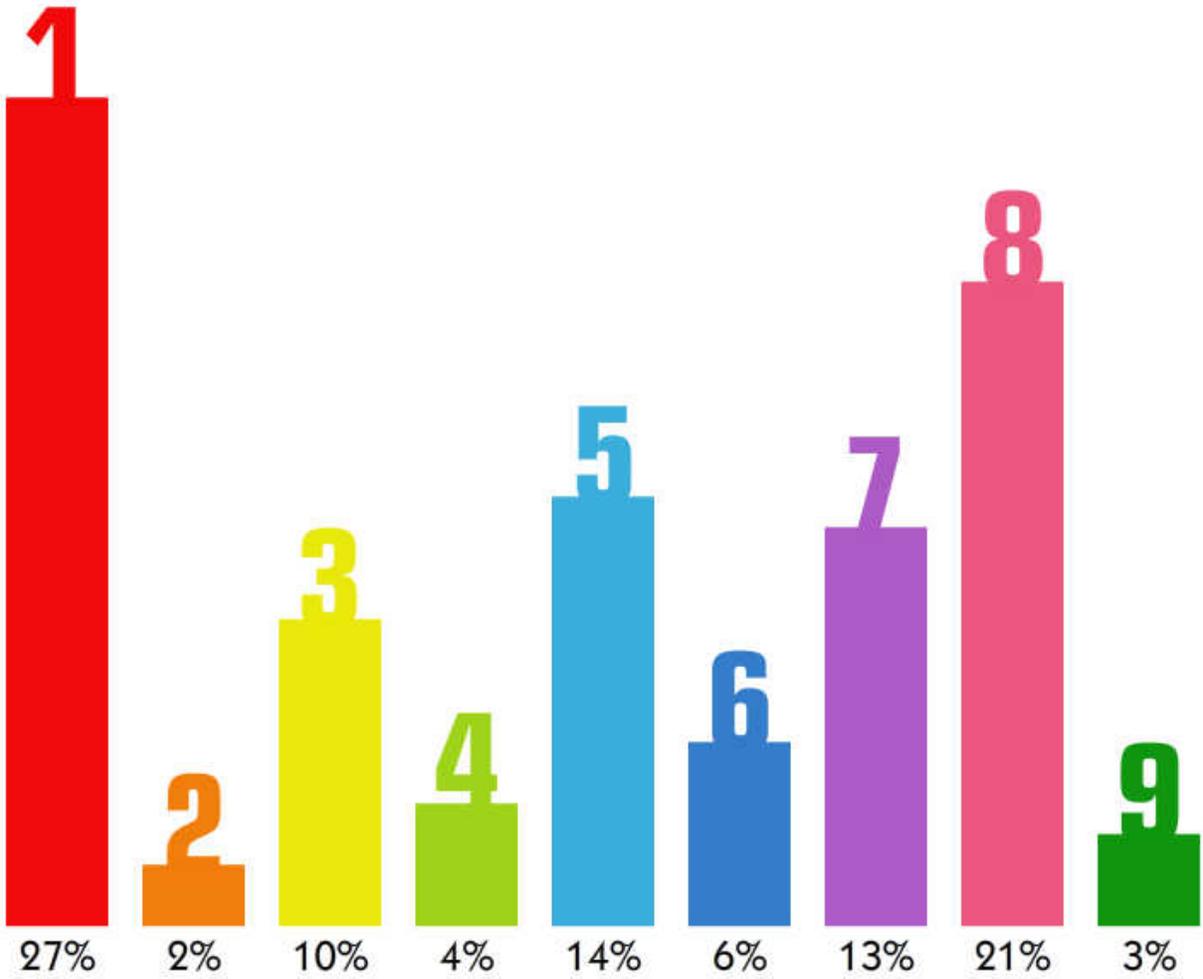

Most numerology charts have the same purpose: to display your numbers and their positions. The chart I developed for the Talent Profile is different and unique. It was designed specifically for determining which qualities are dominant in an individual. To do this, numbers were assigned values based on their relevant locations in your chart. (As with real estate, the effect the numbers have depends on location, location, location.)

Your Proportional Chart lists each of the nine single-digit numbers and illustrates how strongly they are represented in your chart. This chart is based on an algorithm that selects your numbers, considers their location, and assigns a value that reveals which numbers have the most influence.

For example, your Life Path number carries considerably more weight than your Hidden Passion. The influence of your Expression is greater than your Heart's Desire number, which in turn overshadows the influence of your Personality. However, carrying two or more of the same number increases its significance (and thus increases the value assigned to it).

You may have heard that the most important aspect of your chart is your Life Path number. This is often true; however, whereas an astrology chart is largely built around your sun sign, a numerology chart centers around five core numbers, with the remaining numbers adding additional insight. Because each core number holds weight (although less than your Life Path number) it is not uncommon for a number other than your Life Path to be the most influential. If, for instance, you have a 6 Life Path, but three other core numbers are represented by 9, the 9 will be considered dominant in your Proportional Numerology Chart.

Welcome to your Numerology Talent Profile. This report matches your personality traits and talents to the vocations they are most suited to. It is designed to help you identify areas in which you are likely to succeed and find contentment. Knowing which attributes come naturally can inspire you to develop and build on those strengths.

Talents and Traits

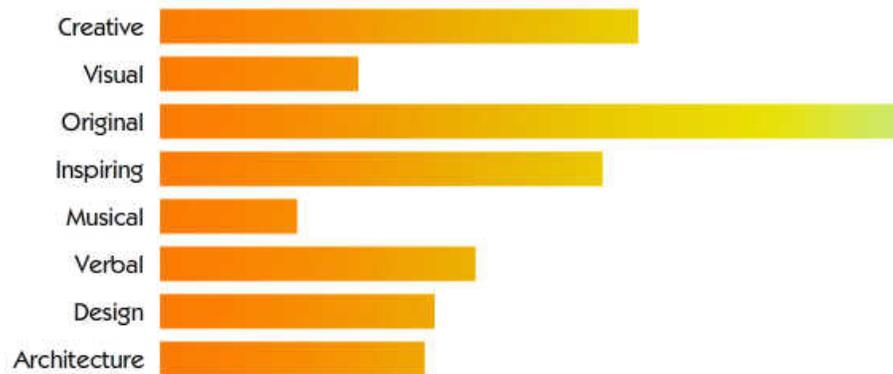

This chapter looks at traits and talents, and how well they are represented in your chart. Keep in mind, we often mistake something we enjoy for something we do well; enthusiasm for something does not always translate into possessing a talent for it. Conversely, we may be quite skilled at something we don't necessarily enjoy, perhaps as a result of a childhood experience or other influence. Also, the ability to recognize and act on a previously undiscovered talent may come later in life or after establishing a dissimilar career. Think of artists who found their gift only in their later years, the stockbroker who uses her wealth to establish a humanitarian foundation, or the accountant who became a nature guide.

Individualism and Initiative

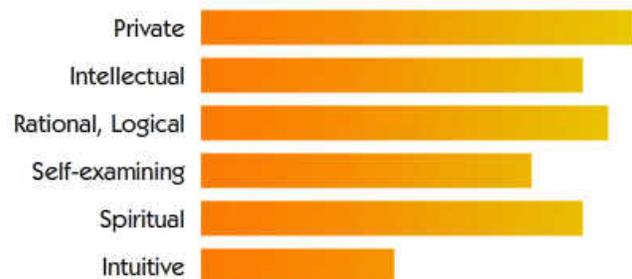

An adequate number of these attributes exist in your personality to make you a capable survivor and someone able to lead when necessary. You can be decisive and do not shrink from your duties or back away from confrontation. However, you may not be as comfortable in these roles as you would like, and you probably function better and are happier when there are others to support you and share in the responsibilities.

Your Artistic Side

A low rating in these areas can manifest in very different ways. This rating suggests you are either quite social, friendly, and talkative (although you prefer to keep things on a superficial level, expressing your deeper feelings to a select group of people you trust) or you are naturally introverted. Most often, those with limited skills in this area have difficulty verbalizing their ideas and feelings in a clear and concise manner. If you often feel tongue-tied, misunderstood, or that you can't quite convey what you mean, consider working on enhancing your verbal skills. A communication or creative-writing course or participating in a public-speaking group might be beneficial.

Your Inner Self

Your rating in this area indicates a tendency to be either strongly connected to an organized, mainstream religion, or a dedicated atheist or agnostic. You very likely made up your mind long ago and probably see no reason to question your conviction. It's possible, however, that even if you consider yourself an atheist, you have a deep appreciation for the mysteries of life and the workings of nature.

Your Humanitarian Side

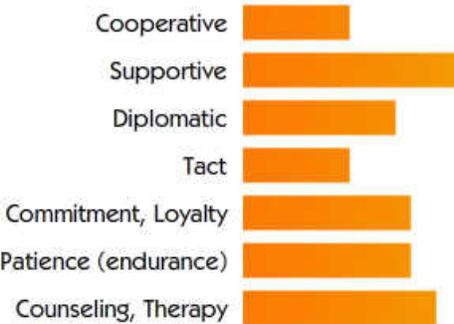

This rating suggests you take a practical approach to the woes of the world and consider them to be an inescapable part of life. You would like to be the first to reach out and help, but you likely have a skeptical side that holds you back. If your rating is especially low, you may need to guard against cynicism, as this often leads to pessimism and the inability to find joy in simple pleasures.

Your Ability to Enjoy Life

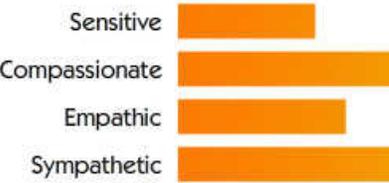

You are not particularly demanding and as long as you have no overwhelming problems, you wake up happy and, more often than not, ready to enjoy your day. You make friends easily, enjoy social activities, and helping others comes naturally.

How You Work with Others

This rating indicates you work well with others and tend to be a peacemaker and a stabilizing influence. Due to a tendency to avoid unnecessary confrontation, you may be prone to agree with others when, in fact, you don't have the same opinion.

Your Sensitive Side

You are conscious of the feelings and wellbeing of others and easily persuaded to help those who are less fortunate. You are naturally drawn to people from all walks of life. You are tolerant, conscientious, and generous. You find satisfaction knowing that your involvement makes a difference in the lives of others.

Your Generous Caring Side

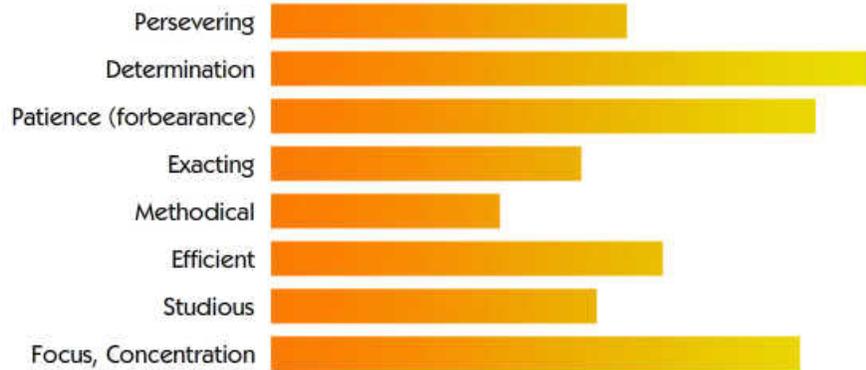

This rating suggests your view of life tends to be a bit harsh. You likely believe we are on our own and fully responsible for our actions. As critical as that perspective may be, you live up to this point of view, almost exclusively relying on your own strength and abilities, rarely seeking help from others.

Your Romantic Side

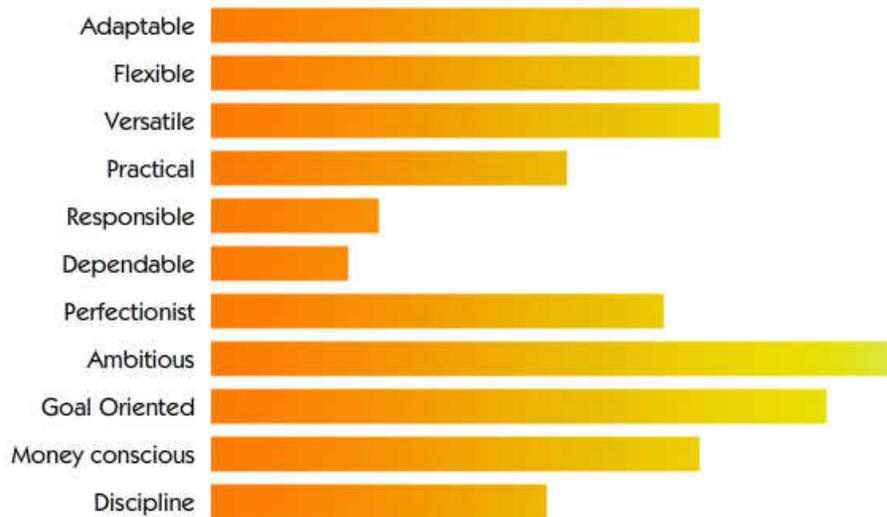

You are able to bring comfort and happiness to your partner due to your instinctive ability to say the right thing at the right time. You are loving and generous and inspire loyalty. However, you also have a need for privacy and time alone and would do well with a life partner who doesn't rely solely on your companionship for happiness.

Your Ability to Preserve and Reach Goals

The potential to meet your goals is substantial. You are capable of putting forth considerable effort. Your biggest challenge may be staying flexible. Be on guard about remaining in a career or situation strictly out of habit or an unfounded sense of responsibility.

Your Practical and Realistic Side

You make the most of the resources at hand. You use your time efficiently and do not allow deadlines to provide you with an excuse for not performing your duties to the best of your ability. You probably work best alone, or in an environment with minimal intrusion and oversight. You set high standards for yourself. Whatever your vocation, you will not rest until you excel.

Vocations

This chapter shows your natural aptitude for various types of professions. If you feel validated in the profession you are pursuing, congratulations. If you feel you are in the wrong line of work, consider what it would take to move toward something more satisfying. Others may have found their niche in an unexpected area or made peace with a career that was not their ideal choice. Regardless, the listings below may shed light on areas of interest you have not previously considered for work, hobbies, or volunteering.

Dear Friend,

Your personal numerology reading was created with the recently updated and expanded numerology software by Hans Decoz.

Between 1984 and 1987 Numerologist Hans Decoz developed the first comprehensive numerology software capable of producing in-depth reports and charts. The software was an instant hit, and is used by professionals and web sites world-wide, including numerologist.com, numerology.com, astrology-numerology.com, tokenrock.com and many others.

His complete range of new reports, however, is available only via World Numerology and the World Numerology app, the most recent generation of Decoz' numerology software.

Download the app today from <https://www.worldnumerology.com>, enter your birth data, and check your daily forecast up to three months ahead. It's free.

The screenshot displays the World Numerology website interface. At the top left is the logo, a stylized grid of numbers. The main header reads "Decoz WORLD NUMEROLOGY COLLECTION". A navigation menu includes "HOME", "REPORTS & CHARTS", "ACCOUNT", "RESOURCES", "ABOUT", and "HELP". The user is logged in as "Tony Mercier" on "5/30/2018". The forecast text reads: "Hello Tony, today's numbers are 5, 32, 2, 3. Today is a 5 day based on 3 and 2, which increases the potential for surprises and unexpected events (some more welcome than others). Fortunately, the day also brings support, so lean on your friends and co-workers. There may be a lot going on today, but the dynamic 5 brings an enhanced ability to think on your feet, supporting your ability to multitask." The right column features "RECENT BLOGS" with a date range of "2017-12-31". The featured blog is titled "2018 GLOBAL NUMEROLOGY FORECAST" and includes the text: "After half a dozen false starts, I have decided to just lay it out as I see it without trying to soften the edges.
